OFFENSIVECON 2018 | HILTON BERLIN

OFFENSIVECON | SECURITY CONFERENCE

Offensivecon is a conference focusing on exploitation and offensive security. The conference takes place in Berlin at the Hilton Hotel from the 14th to the 15th of February 2020. Technical trainings are held a week prior from the 10th to the 13th of February.

The first & second editions of the conference were a huge success with approx. 450 attendees including many internationally recognized researchers. In this coming edition, Offensivecon has gathered an impressive lineup of trainings that include highly talented people such as: Alex Ionescu, Steffan Esser, Bruce Dang, Richard Johnson, RET2, Rolf Rolls, Saumil Shah, and Vitaly Nikolenko.

Offensivecon will offer some of the most advanced research material and technical trainings in the field of Offensive Security. The conference attracts industry professionals in the field of offensive security including, security researchers, bug hunters, reverse engineers and malware analysts. Sponsors will have the opportunity to interact with speakers in the speaker dinner as well as throughout the conference. Moreover, sponsors will have the opportunity to place desks outside the main conference hall.

The conference's aim is to provide a place where industry professionals, hackers, and enthusiasts come together in order to learn, participate and have a good time. For this reason, it is our highest priority to ensure that all the talks in the conference remain open, gender blind and free. We have no intention in limiting any content from any speaker or attendee at our conference, and sponsors will not have a say in this matter. Additionally, there will be no possibilities for sponsors or other parties to influence the talk selection process in any way, manner or form. All talks will be evaluated based on merit and content. Speakers have a right to speak about their content in our conference as they see fit and will not be censored in any way or form.

We would like to accommodate our sponsors and ensure that their goals are achieved. For this reason, we encourage sponsors to talk to us specifically about ideas or suggestions that they might have and we will try to accommodate everyone according to their needs. The packages below are only standard suggestions; however, we are open to discuss specific requests with each sponsor. An extreme effort is made to provide a first-class unique event for all attendees and for this we require the assistance and support of the industry.
